After dinner, Kat, Hanna, and I went back to her aunt's house to get ready while the rest of the band headed back to their apartment. Although the last time we'd been in Raleigh our club experience had some hitches, we ended up picking the same one, since it was the only one we knew of that allowed under-eighteens. Since Hanna had nearly been assaulted the last time we'd been here, we all agreed that we'd leave in a group, to prevent further incidents. We didn't have Victor with us this time, but I was more comfortable since I'd been there before.
